There were some reports at Chilinahna and Santa Fe, of the march of inconsiderable forces of military towards different points, but no seri of military towards different points, but no serious opposition was expected to the entrance of Gen Wool a command at Chinabana, of which they had heard, or that of Gen Kearney at San in Fe. Plenty of grass and water was found on the route between Sauts Fe and Independence, but it was exceedingly questionable whether subsistance could be obtained for Gen Kearney a command in New Mexico. It is believed that command in New Mexico. It is believed that the army must depend altogether for subsistence on supplies from the United States.
